

Safety in Numbers with a Walking School Bus

A walking school bus is a group of children walking to school with one or more adult. It can be as informal as two families taking turns walking their children to school to a structured route with meeting points, a timetable, and a regularly rotating schedule of trained volunteers. When beginning a walking school bus, remember that the program can always grow. It is like a carpool—without the car—with the added benefits of exercise and visits with friends and neighbors.

There are four easy steps to a walking school bus:

1. Invite families who live nearby to walk.
2. Pick a route and take a test walk.
3. Decide how often the group will walk together.
4. Have fun!

A walking school bus has many benefits:

- » Increases supervision, safety and fun for students who already walk.
- » Permits additional students to walk.
- » Reduces auto traffic, particularly near schools during drop-off and pick-up times.
- » Creates a sense of community by getting neighbors to take turns as “bus drivers” and students get to interact with others in their neighborhood.

Do you prefer to bike? A bike train is the same idea but on bikes!
