Purpose: To provide children ages 8–11 with tools to stay safe at home when unsupervised. Children will learn about indoor and outdoor safety, first aid, emergency situations and much more. This knowledge will help parents feel at ease when work schedules conflict with non-school days. It also provides better safety measures whenever children are in a home, including watching out for siblings.

Classes fill quickly – so act now!

Partner with the Tigard Police Department in an effort to empower your child. Officer Kristan Rinell, a certified safety instructor, will teach children ways to be safe whenever they are home alone, or home with other children when no adult supervision is present. This is a must for working parents. Give your children the added confidence knowing they can do the right thing and stay safe when unattended at home.

A COMPLETED REGISTRATION FORM IS REQUIRED. An email confirmation will be sent after processing, subject to space availability. Class size is restricted to better control the messaging and curriculum. All materials and a snack are included. There is no fee for the class; however, a completed registration form must be submitted and your child's spot must be confirmed via email prior to attending.
