Total calls for service: 2

- A Safe Parking participant called nonemergency to report a non-participant in the porta-potty. They were referred to Just Compassion, who responded, talked to the person, and moved them along. The Safe Parking Coordinator reinforced the importance of locking all site amenities when not in use.
- A Safe Parking participant called police non-emergency to report a person going through the dumpsters at City Hall. The individual was not affiliated with the Safe Parking program. Tigard Police responded, spoke with the person, and they moved on. No further action was required.

Additional Program Information

- All the program participants are engaged with the Safe Parking Coordinator on their case management plans and meet regularly with Just Compassion.
- Just Compassion has prepared the host site with supplies in case of inclement weather. The storage container has salt and shovel for participants to deice their parking spaces and to get around safely. Participants will also have the option to go to severe weather shelters in the case of inclement weather for resources during the day and/or an overnight stay.
